Climate Realists' Network

was formed in July 2009.

We link to many other like-minded groups throughout New Zealand.

Our main form of communication is by way of fortnightly newsletters to our members.

Our website contains a number of relevant articles of interest; however anyone wanting to explore the issue of climate on a much deeper level is encouraged to check out our LINKS which provide a broad range of websites with endless hours of reading to suit any taste.

Our position is that:

- we believe that mankind's activities have a minimal effect on the world's climate.
- the cost of an ETS is unsustainable,
- the introduction of an ETS in New Zealand may attempt to make us look good to our export markets but it will have no effect whatsoever on the climate, and in time it will destroy New Zealand's agricultural base.

Opportunity for people to sign up for the Climate Realists' Network newsletters

Our aim is to:

- raise awareness of the political manouverings regarding climate change and the Emissions Trading Scheme in New Zealand
- keep people informed of any relevant meetings and events
- pass on pertinent websites and climate change information
- keep in contact regarding political developments and any possible action necessary on our part

We endeavour to be a link between concerned people throughout the country, and we would love to have you, and any like-minded people you may know, on board.

“There is no scientific answer to this question of what our target should be. For New Zealand is a small emitter by world standards – only emitting some 0.2% of global greenhouse gases. So anything we do as a nation will in itself have little impact on the climate – our impact will be symbolic, moral and political.”

The Prime Minister’s own Chief Science Advisor, Sir Peter Gluckman
